Snow Traps 150 In Quebec Cafe

Some 150 men, women and children today were reported snow-bound in a restaurant about 12 miles east of here as huge drifts blocked all highways in the area.

Roads department officials here said the group, passengers on a bus and in a number of cars—became snowbound about midnight Sunday night and sought refuge in the restaurant. It was reported there was no food left in the restaurant and efforts were being made by the Quebec Provincial Police to send food by snowmobile.

Roads officials said efforts to clear the highways in all directions from this St. Lawrence River town, 50 miles northeast of Montreal, are made difficult because of falling snow, four below zero temperatures, winds gusting to 40 miles and much snow on the ground.

The police and snow blowers can only make about a couple of miles an hour, a roads official said. "They are hindered by stalled vehicles and crews have difficulty finding the road-way in the huge drifts."

As soon as they clear a path, the high wind causes drifts to fill in right behind them, roads official said. "It's a vicious cycle," he said. "Things are even tougher."

Bennett's Columbia Offer Opens New Avenue Says U.S.

SEATTLE (AP)—A proposal for a new route for transportation between the British Columbia Premier Bennett "opens up a new avenue for exploration" of the Columbia River, a U.S. official said today.

"Any other plan suggested is deadlocked," the official said. "Development is a step forward."

Mr. Bennett said at Kelowna his government would look at any proposal which would build the proposed three big storage dams on the Columbia River in Canada, plus power facilities at Mica Creek, "at no cost to us."

"It certainly offers more," he said.

Canadian Cardinal "Sorry" For Report On Pope's Health

ROME (Reuters)—The Turin newspaper Stampa Sera says Emile Cardinal Leger, archbishop of Montreal, has sent a telegram to the Pope regretting a remark he made about the pontiff's health was "misinterpreted."

Cardinal Leger told a public meeting in Montreal Dec. 17 in response to a question about the 81-year-old pontiff's health that the Pope was suffering from an undisclosed illness "that will remain with him until the end of his days."

The Vatican announced officially Nov. 29 that the Pope was suffering from stomach trouble, with anemia.

Stampa Sera says Cardinal Leger has made "an act of reparation" for his statements in a New Year's greeting telegram.

Parliament Soon Fell Short Of Target On Debate Time

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's 25th Parliament started last September with a ready-made reputation for the high levels of ability among its new members.

When it went into its Christmas-New Year's recess after 60 working days, however, some observers were wondering why the bloom went off its good name.

An analysis of the Commons' accomplishments by the government shows that less than half of the time earmarked for debate was spent on passing legislation.

Parliamentary rules set some time limits—eight days for general debate on the government's legislative program outlined in the speech from the throne, six two-day debates on supply motions, and six days for general debate on the annual budget.

In the pre-Christmas 60 days of the current session, there was no budget and only one of the six supply debates was held. Finance Minister Nowlan has promised to bring down the new budget early in the new year, and five other supply debates are to be scheduled by the government.

But in addition to the eight-day throne speech debate in September and early October, the Commons spent nine days discussing last spring's budget in detail, eight days in rambling and inconclusive debate on interim supply bills, and three days making a stab at last spring's spending estimates.

The budget resolutions had already taken the effect of law, nine of the hundreds of individual 1962-63 estimate items has yet been passed, and the government for another interim supply bill when Parliament resumes Jan. 21.

Interim supply is the device by which governments obtain interim approval of the Commons for its monthly bills such as the civil service payroll, pending final approval by the Commons of the individual spending estimates.

The previous seven stranglings still are unsolved, six in Boston and one in nearby Lynn, Mass.

New Year of Vital Import To All Canadian Farmers

SASKATOON (CP)—The year 1963 will be one of important decisions about Canada's relations with new trading areas, Alfred P. Gleave, president of the National Farmers Union, said today.

The victims included four bus passengers, driver of the vehicle and one of the men aboard the truck.

Rescue workers at the crash scene were reported using blow torches to free some of the passengers.

Mr. Gleave said he hoped that in 1963 "the pace of the Canadian economy will be increased and that the purchasing power of Canadians will move forward so that they are able to use and consume the increasing production of Canadian agriculture."

More Snow Blankets U.K.

LONDON (CP)—More snow fell in parts of the British Isles today while in other sections thawing brought a threat of icy floods in the wake of the worst cold wave in 15 years.

Weekend blizzards that swept the United Kingdom left villages by the dozens cut off from the outside world.

In the northeast of England another six inches of snow fell during the night and high winds piled drifts 20 feet high. The weather also worsened in Scotland and five major roads were blocked.

Temperatures stood just below freezing through most of Sunday. While no total snowfall figures were available, weather officials said it was the worst cold wave in Britain since 1947.

The big freeze spread over much of continental Europe. But rising temperatures in Austria and France brought the danger of avalanches around the crowded ski centres.

Another Vital Town Falls To UN Force In Katanga Advance

Call To Surrender Planes 'Or They'll Be Destroyed'

LEOPOLDVILLE. The Congo reported destroyed to the United Nations forces today seized control of another key town in Katanga province and warned they will destroy all Katanga planes which are not surrendered to the UN by Tuesday morning.

Swedish and Ghanaian UN troops advanced into the northern town of Kamina from their base 18 miles away after overcoming resistance by Katanga gendarmes.

The UN had reported Sunday that Ghanaian UN troops had seized the town, 290 miles northwest of Elisabethville, capital of the secessionist province.

But later reports said the Ghanaian troops met resistance from Katanga gendarmes near the big Kamina UN base and outside Kamina town and did not take the strategic centre until today.

The town's capture came in the wake of two weekend air attacks by UN fighter planes on Katanga airbases, including the main Katanga air base at Kolwezi.

Many Katanga planes were reported destroyed to the United Nations forces today.

Fewer Deaths On Roads

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
Canada's road-death toll in the first half of the four-day New Year's weekend was less than a quarter of that of the comparable period Christmas weekend.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. local times Friday to midnight Sunday showed 12 traffic fatalities compared with 51 at the same point a week ago.

Five provinces shared the road deaths, Ontario reporting seven, Quebec three and Newfoundland and British Columbia one each.

Old Year Dying Hard In East As Storms, Gales Wreak Chaos

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
Snow and rain struck the maritimes with the fury of an autumn hurricane Sunday while most of Canada was gripped in the winter's worst cold snap.

Canada's easternmost province battered down Sunday night as forecasters predicted snow with winds of up to 75 miles an hour on the west coast and 55 miles an hour farther east.

In the wake of Sunday's storm the Maritime provinces today were in for a taste of the bitter cold that hit central Canada during the weekend, sending the mercury to record low levels in some spots.

Overnight lows were records in Windsor, London, Toronto and North Bay, while farther east full effects of the cold wave were yet to be felt. In North Bay the temperature early today had fallen to 22 below zero, six degrees below the record for the day set in 1953.

The Maritimes' storm, the region's worst in 10 years, smashed heavy seas against the coastline along the Bay of Fundy and Nova Scotia's south shore. Fishermen struggled through the night securing boats and gear threatened by waves that poured over wharves and breakwaters.

Two men died of heart attacks in New Brunswick, one in driving a snowplow and the other shovelling snow.

The only mild temperatures in Canada Sunday were on the West Coast. But the readings in the mid-40s were accompanied by heavy rains that were expected to turn to snowflurries today.

The warm air moving inland was expected to lift temperatures on the Prairies into the 10s and 20s, where Sunday they hovered well below zero. Today's predicted high for Lethbridge was 45.

The cold weather brought a rash of house fires across Canada as residents overheated stoves and furnaces. New Brunswick and Ontario each recorded a fire death.

Indonesia Takes Over

THE HAGUE (Reuters)—Indonesia today "symbolically" assumed control of the former Dutch colony of West New Guinea, reports received in The Netherlands capital said.

The Dutch flag was lowered for the last time in the territory, officially marking the end of three centuries of Dutch colonialism in the Indonesian archipelago.

One hour after the Dutch flag was lowered, the Indonesian flag and the United Nations flag were raised side by side, marking a "symbolic" transfer of power to Indonesia, four months ahead of the actual handing over of control of West New Guinea to Indonesia by the United Nations.

River Blown From Bed As Wind And Snow Blast Atlantic Coast

NEW YORK (AP)—Winter's full force hit the eastern section of the United States during the weekend. Below-zero temperatures were reported today in many spots.

High-velocity winds tore down power lines, may have swept a youth off a ferryboat and overturned a motorboat whose operator drowned. The powerful gusts literally blew a river from its bed, stranding numerous boats.

The wintry blast also brought fresh accumulations of snow in some places.

Bangor, Me., had at least 21 inches of new snow in some places.

Bangor, Me., had at least 21 inches of new snow on top of the 15 inches previously fallen. Flowing winds piled drifts as high as 20 feet. Bangor, with a population of 50,000, was "just about paralyzed," according to one reporter.

The Bangor Daily News failed to publish its morning paper today for the first time since 1899.

New York City experienced four-degree temperatures today, equalling the year's lowest reading.

Gusts reached 80 m.p.h. in Newark, N.J., and an estimated 70 m.p.h. at Riverhead, N.Y., where the Peconic River was blown out into Great Peconic Bay on the north shore of Long Island. Boats were left stranded in low water over a stretch of two miles or more.

Easy On The Haggis, Jock!

CORBY, England (Reuters)—Thousands of Scots preparing to celebrate New Year's Eve in this central England town were warned today they will be fired if they do not turn up for work Tuesday.

New Year's Eve parties go on all night in Corby, often called "Little Scotland" because Scots make up 60 per cent of its population. Scotland has an official holiday New Year's Day but it's work as usual in the rest of Britain.

The manager of a Corby department store said: "When in Rome do as the Romans do. This is England, not Scotland. They've had Christmas off—and that should be enough."

"A Scottish building contractor said: 'I think their attitude is intolerable. I'd never expect a Scotsman to turn up after Hogmanay. It would be sacrilege.'"

Hogmanay is the traditional New Year's Eve celebration observed by most Scots.

Highlights Of The Year Building, More Tourists

Kelowna's 1962 was a bumper year for building and excitement.

It also saw plans offered for high rise apartments, beach development, highway construction.

It saw hundreds of tourists to boost the economy as Rogers Pass opened in July; it saw lively pre-election action in December, a sun-drenched International Regatta, it saw several fires reaching damages in the thousands and a suspected Doukhobor bombing of a city hotel.

Spending about six hours each in the field, club members recorded a total of 63 species of birds, same number as the species recorded for the Vernon area, where the census of resident birds was taken Dec. 26.

There are several differences in the kinds of birds for the two areas, however, a club member reported today.

Club members divided into four groups, to cover as much territory as possible within a seven and a half mile radius from Kelowna Post Office. This is the procedure followed by the Audubon Christmas Bird Census, which is now a tradition for naturalists throughout North America.

RED CROSSBILLS

The first group, led by James Grant of the Forestry Entomology Laboratory in Vernon, explored areas north of Bernard Ave., including Knox Mountain and Glenmore Road, highlighting of Kelowna, covering the west of their day was the sight of side of Okanagan Lake.

about 30 red crossbills feeding at the top of a large pine on Knox Mountain. "These beautiful birds have a unique adaptation in the shape of their bills, which have developed long tips that do not meet at the end, but cross sharply. This enables the birds to extract seeds from cones, their chief food. Members of Mr. Grant's party had a clear sight of the birds' remarkable bills."

Dr. D. A. Ross, head of the Forestry Entomology Laboratory, led the second group, which included one of the club's original members, E. W. Van Blaricom. They counted the East Kelowna area, where they recorded 31 different species.

The third group, led by Karl Gruener of Vernon, covered Okanagan Mission.

This proved to be the most productive of all the area, with all but one of the final total of 63 species being found here. The additional species not found in the Mission was the American Merganser, which was recorded by the group led by C. B. Day.

Premier Says Here Prepared To Look At 'No Cost' Power Formula

Premier Bennett said Saturday in Kelowna his government is ready to look at any formula that would build the proposed three big dams on the Columbia River plus power facilities at Mica Creek at no cost to us.

In an interview from his home here the Premier said his proposals for sale of Canada's share of downstream benefit Columbia power to the U.S. at five mills per kilowatt hour was not a rigid one.

"If we were to supply the money at no cost to us so that we got the three dams built plus power at Mica, then that would be just as good to us as five mills," the premier said.

The three dams he referred to were at Duncan Lake, High Arrow and Mica Creek, proposed in the U.S.-Canada Columbia River development treaty.

The treaty has been ratified by the U.S. but not by Canada and there have been proposals in terms by which Canada gets 50 per cent of the downstream benefit power should be renegotiated.

Mr. Bennett said the U.S. would reap great benefit but "B.C. must have out of it these three dams and power at Mica absolutely free of cost."

"We would take a second look at any formula that would bring this about."

The premier said his second look references had nothing to do with B.C.'s plans for Peace River development.

TENDERS IN SPRING

Tenders are to be let next spring for that giant project.

Mr. Bennett said the Peace project will produce the cheapest new power in the western world and bring in new industries and reduce the light bills of the consumer.

The government is developing the Peace while still negotiating with the Canadian and United States governments on the Columbia river scheme.

Three-government talks were held recently on B.C.'s demand that Canada's share of the power be sold in the U.S. for five mills.

Here to open the South Okanagan Mental Health Clinic, Mr. Bennett told interviewers Friday that Canada, because of the firmness of the B.C. government, had been put in an excellent position some months ago with a "market in the U.S. for five-mill power sales."

DELAY "COSTLY"

But vaccination and delay by Ottawa was "costly," because our strength was based on timing and now that advantage is gone.

He was convinced, however, that whether or not the U.S. would pay five mills for Columbia downstream power, both that big project and the Peace project must go ahead.

On this his government would not yield, he said.

He did not elaborate.

Milton Reeces Win House Lights Contest

WESTBANK — First place in the home lighting contests was the door decoration at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Reeces.

The star and typically Christmas scheme was beautifully done and drew many admiring spectators during the holiday.

Placing second in the contest sponsored by Westbank Chamber of Commerce and local Hydro Company, was the effective lighting seen at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Reeces.

Winning third prize was the lighted Christmas tree and Santa scene displayed outside the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Brown.

TWO FIRES

Vying with the holiday lighting were the two chimney fires which occurred within minutes during the night of high wind when Westbank's volunteer firemen were called out almost simultaneously.

The first was at the home of Mr. Miller, and the men had barely time to return the truck to its base when the fire alarm went again, this time for a fire at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Derriekson. Prompt action on the part of these volunteer firemen prevented extensive damage to homes that might easily have been destroyed during the terrific gale.

Damage to the cars will amount to approximately $100, RCMP said, and no charges are contemplated.

The home of Ted Cameron, Hudson Road, Westbank, was broken into over the weekend. Since the owner is away RCMP cannot determine if anything was taken and are continuing their investigation.

Doorway To Adventure

The approach of a New Year is a timely occasion for a look back and a look ahead. Probably most people take the opportunity provided by the calendar, and despite pleasures about the fate of New Year resolutions, to plan to do better in some way next year than in the year just ending. This sort of personal assessment is a very good thing. By making a cut in the infinite flow of time, we may set the past apart and give ourselves the sense of a new start. Even though it is all in our minds, the psychological benefits of the practice have long been recognized. Let us accept the chance and profit by it.

Not the least enjoyable feature of the New Year is the mystery it contains. By the thirty-first of December we know everything 1962 might have in store. At a minute after midnight we have before us a blank sheet. Anything may happen, and often it does. There is something highly stimulating about this prospect, a touch of adventure, a certainty of difference and newness.

One of the great weaknesses of our society is the way a fear of the future has possessed it. We have gone mad over security of one sort or another. It is as if there was a cult of fear which prevents us taking risks. We have actually come to dread failure more than we wish success. This is as true of our national life as it is of our personal attitude. Vigor, ambition, fire have given place to cynicism, indifference and plain boredom.

It is this weakness that the New Year challenges on every point. A casual inference of what the year holds might be discouraging enough, except that history has shown us that very often beneath the surface forces are at work which take events by the neck and force them in unsuspected directions. Very possibly 1963 will produce solutions which no one at this date expected.

As a nation we may look back on 1962 without too great enthusiasm. True, it was not a poor year, but our economy did take a serious setback and our collective indecisive vote landed us into a mess as yet unresolved. However many of the most foreboding fears which lurked on the horizon in international affairs did not materialize. There have been undoubted setbacks and embarrassing failures, the consequence of which may last a long time. But so far as wisdom may judge, we have made progress toward peace. It is the earnest prayer of everyone that this is so.

But whatever is before us, we may look forward with hope. Life poses its challenges, offers its choices and we make the best—or the worst—of them. Today, with a New Year before us, we prefer to anticipate the best. And that is what we wish for all our readers.

A Child Will Sing

It's a New Year—almost. Why it seems a mere whisp of time since it was 1953 or even 1943. But then you think of all the things that happen in ten years or twenty years and the interval stretches and expands and becomes a long time.

We look backwards because it is easier. People say "Ten years ago," but seldom "Ten years from now." Even the very sound of a new date seems strange on our tongues. When it is 1962, it is difficult to envisage 1963. New Year's Day explodes upon us, and before we know it we have accepted another date in the long march of the centuries. And 1964 has such an alien sound and seems such a long way away.

The human race endured much in 1962, but man seems to have an awesome capacity for picking himself up off the ground and living. Flood, famine, and fire, war and pestilence have struck at him for the last 1962 years and for all the thousands of years before that that encompass his recorded history.

And terrible things may happen in 1963. Some of them may be forced upon us by the elements, and others we will force upon one another.

But good things will happen, too. A child will sing in 1963. A piece of wonderful music will be played. And a writer, perhaps a writer yet unknown, will arrange the words of the English language into a pattern that has great power and beauty.

The snow will lay across the land, touching the hills and the trees, but the winter of 1963 will weaken and spring will sigh softly toward us. The lilacs will drench the air in 1963. The tiny blades of grass will push through the earth and assume a sheen.

Two people will fall in love in 1963, completely and irrevocably and beyond question.

Somebody will grow tired of hate and turn away from malice toward the face of charity. Daisies will grow beside a country road and some child and its mother will venture into a field to pick them.

And in the summer the air will become soft and heavy and sounds will be muted. Roses will bloom in a garden in 1963. A plow will turn a furrow of rich soil and there will be the smell of earth. The apple trees will bloom and bring forth luscious fruit.

Lightning will hurl fury across the sky in 1963 and water will smash against rock in the ecstasy of a storm. Somebody will walk along a path and feel rain against his face.

In the city a hundred evenings will fall. The lights of the city will blink on, amber and gold and red and blue and green and yellow. The street lights will look like lighted lengths of rope.

Somebody will sing an old song in 1963 and somebody else will remember it, too. A girl will go to her first party and she will wear a new gown. An old man will find a faded photograph he thought he had lost forever.

Music will come across water over some northern lake and fireflies will sprinkle the road with dots of light. Two hands will feel toward each other and lips will touch.

The moon, shy and inscrutable, will have the cities and towns and all the countryside. And the breeze will touch the tops of trees and turn the undersides of leaves so they show. The coals of a campfire will glow and tremble but blankets will be warm.

And in the east, each morning the sun will rise.

And, perhaps, in 1963 some of us may advance some slight way in the knowledge of the Brotherhood of Man under the Fatherhood of God.

Happy New Year!

In Passing

Murder is against the law, but most likely you wouldn't even be arrested if you should kill the person responsible for most of your trouble.

It seems to get too late earlier each succeeding year to shop early for Christmas.

An increasing number of people are murdering relatives. This is especially ill-advised as murdering kin is particularly difficult to explain plausibly.

News Agency Staff Peeks At World Issues Rising In '63

EDITOR'S NOTE: What is ahead around the world in the new year? The Associated Press sent this question to its correspondents in key areas. Here their reports.

BRITAIN

By TOM OCHILTREE
LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Macmillan faces 1963 with enough problems to test the patience of Job. He could easily fall from power if these overwhelm him.

Britain, shorn of Empire, is trying to find a new role in world affairs. For that reason the coming year promises to be as full of strain and confusion in the political, diplomatic, defence and economic fields as any faced by this island kingdom since the Second World War.

Britain's special relationship with the United States may undergo revisions now that Washington is calling into question the value of Macmillan's separate nuclear deterrent.

The British government still intends to seek membership in the European Common Market. Failure to reach agreement thus far with this continental grouping has caused mounting concern in London's business and financial communities.

WESTERN EUROPE

By RICHARD O'NEAL
BERLIN (AP) — Western Europe's hopes of peace, prosperity and security look brighter in 1963 than at any time in the last five perilous years.

Since the Cuban crisis, Russia has taken a new soft line in its approach to Europe's main problem — Berlin. The Soviets appear more willing to negotiate a Berlin settlement which might protect Western rights in the city.

Politically, 1963 appears likely to be a secure year for Europeans with no major crises. In Italy, however, there are general elections in May.

COMMUNIST EUROPE

By PRESTON GROVER
MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union and all the eastern

European socialist states are facing their toughest year since the war.

All are beset by serious economic disorders. There is a ferment of discontent and uneasiness.

Party control of every phase of life in each of these countries simply isn't working well and all have started large-scale reorganizations. Moreover, the Soviet Union is engaged in a mud-slinging leadership battle with China that has already put Albania out of the Soviet flock and promises to get worse, not better, in the year ahead.

The Soviet Union, economically strained, will cut down its foreign aid program still more both to socialist and other states. A massive reorganization both of the party and the Soviet government is under way.

MIDDLE EAST

By WEBB MCKINLEY
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — This next year could be the year of the showdown between Arab republicans and kings.

In 1962, the long struggle between old and new in the Middle East came suddenly into focus in remote Yemen, whose feudal monarchy was overthrown by republican revolutionaries.

Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic rushed to the rebels' aid and found himself in a power fight with Saudi Arabia's king and Jordan's King Hussein. Nasser has promised support for all "popular" revolutions—and his followers would consider one in Jordan, Saudi Arabia or republican Syria—once Nasser's northern province—extremely "popular."

Saudi Arabia in particular was shaken by the Yemen revolt.

EAST ASIA

By HENRY S. BRADSHAW
NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Communist China's invasion of India and then its unexpected partial withdrawal have left a tense military stalemate for the new year along the Himalayas.

Tedious diplomatic exchanges between New Delhi and Peking will continue for several months. A new eruption of fighting then is a strong possibility as the Indian army recovers from its defeats with the help of American and British aid.

The Chinese challenge will also cause a pruning of India's economic development program, delaying the day when India breaks out of its grinding poverty.

BITTER WAR

South Viet Nam is fighting a bitter, and so far indecisive war against Communist guerrillas. The government backed by the U.S. has made strength seems to grow.

Laos, a pawn in the cold war, is stumbling towards stable government with uncertain prospects of success. Neutralist Premier Souvanna Phouma has threatened to resign if left and right wing factions do not make good their promises to co-operate. The proposed Federation of Malaya is expected to go ahead with a deadline of Aug. 31.

AFRICA

By RICHARD KASICHKE
JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Stormy political weather and racial strife seem in store for southern Africa, from The Congo to the Cape, in 1963.

And for the new and emerging states of middle Africa, the new year is likely to bring more groping toward stability, with an increasing tendency toward one-party rule.

The Congo, after 29 crisis-ridden months of independence, enters the new year with renewed fighting between United Nations forces and troops of secessionist Katanga Province. The Central African Federation, a union of Nyasaland and Northern and Southern Rhodesia, is headed for almost certain breakup. Britain has already agreed in principle to the secession of Nyasaland, smallest and poorest of the three, under Negro leaders headed by Dr. Hastings Banda.

NEGRO MAJORITY

Mineral-rich Northern Rhodesia got a Negro majority legislative council in a fall election and its leaders plan a secession drive early in the new year. In face of these developments, Southern Rhodesia's white voters rejected proposals for multiracial rule and elected a right-wing white government to try to hold on to their privileges. White Southern Rhodesians look toward friends on their flanks—where Portugal still holds Angola on the west and Mozambique on the east coast. But most of all, Southern Rhodesians look southward to rich, white-ruled South Africa.

In South Africa the ruling whites, outnumbered almost 5 to 1, have been arming to defend what its government increasingly considers the last redoubt of "Christianity and white civilization" in Africa.

LATIN AMERICA

By FRANK BRUITTO
RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Latin America faces the new year with Fidel Castro vastly diminished in prestige but with national problems still towering in size and threatening to grow bigger.

Financial difficulties, political uncertainty and the need for stepped-up social reform continue as the general lot of Central and South American countries.

OTTAWA REPORT

Reverse Play On Politics

By PATRICK NICHOLSON

Our politicians spend so much time discussing in detail the problems of Canada that it is a welcome and indeed a necessary reverse play to find that some Canadians are beginning to spend a lot of time in discussing in considerable detail the problems of our politicians.

It is commonly said that Canadians are not a politically inclined nation. We certainly do not, like the British in their pubs and the Germans in their beer-gardens, spend many evenings discussing our public affairs. But there is a tremendous and fascinating interest to be derived from politics. Look at the success achieved by the national work "Advise and Consent."

This novel described imaginary goings-on in Washington. It was written by a newspaper reporter, it has been published and serialized and filmed, to the entertainment of many people in many lands who would not admit that they are actively interested in politics.

FOUR OTTAWA REPORTS

Our newspapers and periodicals sometimes describe some of the happenings on and around Parliament Hill. I recently interviewed a number of MPs on the radio, and got some astonishing answers from them to the simple question "What do you think has been the most significant development in Parliament this Fall, which has been glossed over by our newspapers?" One MP from B.C. said: "Everything the Rockies are an iron-ore mine, and we read practically nothing in our papers which happened in the rest of Canada."

For various reasons, only the facts of parliament are widely reported. The reasons behind these facts—the deals, the negotiations, the logrolling and indeed even the conspiracies behind the events of the day, are touched on little—if at all.

So it is a welcome development to find that the Toronto University Press has begun in part to open this closed door, in an attempt to educate and to entertain Canadians in this field of public affairs. It is a field in which we should all be sufficiently well-informed that we can exercise our privilege as citizens with wisdom. It is a field which we would all find enlightening and exciting if we were really excited to keep tabs on the secret manoeuvres behind that closed door — as "Advise and Consent" made possible.

This first step by the University of Toronto Press is to publish a book describing and discussing the many aspects of a Canadian federal election. The Canadian General Election of 1957 offers for $6.50 a complete factual survey in 300 tightly-written pages and a slip-in electoral map of Canada.

VOTE DISSECTED

The writer of this scholarly post-mortem is Professor John Meisel, of the Department of Political and Economic Science at Queen's University. He has explored deeply into the thinking of politicians and the working of their party organizations, and has highlighted the background and the battles of that campaign in a way that outpaces the on-the-spot reports by our newspapers and broadcast stations.

In Britain and in U.S.A. this exercise is no novelty. There such exhaustive studies appear in hard covers quickly and slickly. If there is any criticism of Meisel's work, it would be on the ground that it appeared five years after the event, whereas in both Britain and U.S.A. such books have recently appeared within one year of the event they analyzed.

A mood of more intimate familiarity with public affairs is surging through the western world, and it is accompanied by a new entertainment form satirizing public figures. The first makes the record possible. The whole gives a closer understanding of the problems and worries which harass our governments. This book is a twist to public knowledge of the private side of public affairs may prove to be the sugar coating on a topic we have shunned too long.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Cold Metal Can Burn

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

I know a man who lost some fingers from frostbite as a result of changing his automobile license plates on a frigid day. Many of us, living in warm houses and riding in warm cars, have lost the respect our grandfathers had for cold. The upsurge of interest in winter sports, like skiing and tobogganing, not to mention winter hunting and camping, makes it important to be careful and smart. Even in comparatively mild weather, some hunters have died of exposure.

And then there are simple things like changing license plates. Our forefathers knew that touching metal in cold weather is dangerous because so doing quickly conducts sweat away from the flesh.

Bradford Washburn, director of the Museum of Science in Boston, has written an interesting article about frostbite in mountain climbing, but the peril can still exist in our own driveways.

He points out that wind and cold together can be more deadly than either one alone. A 45-mile gale at a "moderate" 20 above can be as chilling as 40 below in a two-mile breeze.

Why? Because with little or no wind, a layer of faintly warm air lingers around us. In a wind, no such fragile layer of air remains. Every particle of cold air that touches us carries away its tiny speck of heat.

That's why, when we step outdoors in shirt sleeves on a cold day we don't feel the full effect of the cold at once. That's also why an Eskimo parka's hood is designed to project forward around the face, cutting off some of the direct effect of the wind.

In many instances snow can be colder than the air. You can freeze your feet in loose snow on a cold, sunny day when you suffer frostbite nowhere else. On a zero day, snow a foot below the surface can be much colder.

The Arctic igloo made of snow protects because it cuts off wind and permits the creation of a pocket of warm air. But lying or falling in a snowbank isn't like being in an igloo.

For winter walking, dress appropriately. Wear socks and boots that aren't too tight. Impeding your circulation is risky. If you stop to rest, eat or admire the scenery, and sit down, it's wise, if possible, to get your feet hoisted up and aimed toward the sun if there is any.

Mittens are warmer than gloves. For surveyors, photographers or others who have to use their hands outdoors in cold weather, even this cotton or silk gloves help materially. The fabric traps particles of air which become warm from body heat (well, warmer than the outside air) and provide a somewhat protective layer. That's why sheer hosiery protects more than it appears to—although I'm going to exercise my male prerogative and stick to trousers.

Avoid the peril of dampness which intensifies the damage from cold. "Trench foot" is an example. Guard against moisture as you do against wind. And more tomorrow on perils and treatment of frostbite and freezing.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please write about cholera. Is it curable? Mrs. V.L.

Cholera, or "St. Vitus' dance," is a symptom that sometimes accompanies rheumatic fever. The cholera tends to cease of itself; medication in the meantime may ease it. But the basic cause, rheumatic fever, should be watched carefully. Monthly injections of long-lasting penicillin are widely and effectively used to prevent new attacks of rheumatic fever.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Brig-Gen Richard Montgomery led his outnumbered American forces in an ill-fated assault against Quebec 181 years ago today. In 1775, Montgomery had fewer than 1,000 men for the attack which he launched in a howling blizzard. He was killed early in the battle and the operation quickly collapsed.

1857—Ottawa was chosen as the capital of Canada by Queen Victoria.

1600 — The East India Company was chartered by Queen Elizabeth I.

Don't Yank Her Collar

Dear Ann Landers: The girls in the office are having a difference of opinion. Will you please referee?

We are agreed it is bad manners to ask a friend how much she paid for something. But how about asking where the hat or the shoes or the coat was purchased? If the merchandise was bought at one of the swankier stores no one is embarrassed. But occasionally some of us pick up bargains in a little out-of-the-way place, or even in a resale shop or at a rummage sale.

One woman in this office doesn't even ask. She just yanks the collar of your dress and looks at the label. I say it's nobody's business where you bought the merchandise. May we hear from you on this?

PRESIDENT OF THE SOCIETY FOR PRESERVATION OF GOOD MANNERS FOR WORKING GIRLS.

Dear Madame President: A woman who receives a compliment on her hat, shoes or coat will usually tell you when she purchased it within the first three sentences—if she wishes you to know. If the information is not volunteered, the question should not be asked. Collar yanking is absolutely out. Moreover, it is sometimes fruitless, because in the better dresses the labels are sewn in the skirt seams.

Dear Ann Landers: We had a tragedy in our family and I need some advice. Our young niece, 21 years old, was seriously injured in an automobile accident. She will probably be in a wheel chair for the rest of her life.

The circumstances surrounding the accident were ugly. The man is married and has a fine family. He is prominent in business circles and, naturally, there was much publicity. There was no way we could keep this information from our 11 and 13-year-old children.

NOT CAR 54 BUT WHERE ARE FBI...

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (AP) — Pharmacist John Swire heard an authoritative voice when he answered the telephone at his drug store.

This is an agent of the FBI. We have information that your store is going to be held up in a few minutes. We have the place under surveillance and we will arrest the man as soon as he comes out. Cooperate with him in every way so we can get evidence.

A shabbily dressed man walked in a few minutes later and announced that he was staging a holdup.

He took $50 and some narcotics and calmly walked out. Swire is still waiting for the FBI.

Suit Against Cincinnati Reds Dropped By Attorney-General

CINCINNATI (AP)—Ohio Attorney-General Mark McElroy dropped his suit today to set aside sale of the Cincinnati Reds baseball club of the National League to William O. DeWitt.

The dismissal was announced by Court of Common Pleas Judge Frank M. Casper in return for a pledge from DeWitt to keep the ball club here for at least 10 years.

The agreement also included DeWitt's promise to augment the present board of directors by the naming of four prominent Cincinnatians and DeWitt's payment of an additional $350,000 on the balance of the trust to protect the club.

debtors of the original purchase price.

It was disclosed at a press conference that Judge Casper had participated as an arbitrator in the settlement of the suit. McElroy said in a statement "the public interest has been served by the agreement of the parties."

DeWitt, general manager of the ball club when it was owned by the late Powell Crosley Jr., bought the club early in 1962 from the Crosley Foundation, a charitable organization. McElroy then filed suit to have the sale set aside. He claimed another and higher offer had not been considered and that under the law he was required to supervise the activities of the trust to protect the club.

Hawks Claw Way To Victory By Last Minute Goal Spree

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Boston Bruins won't soon forget the last 10 minutes they spent on the ice with Chicago Black Hawks in 1962.

In that short space of time the Hawks, playing before an enthusiastic home crowd, clawed their way from behind with four goals to beat Bruins 4-2 Sunday night and finish the old year as undefeated leaders of the National Hockey League.

The victory put Chicago two points ahead of Toronto Maple Leafs, breaking a deadlock that persisted when the two teams fought to a 1-1 tie in Toronto Saturday night.

Other big games in weekend action were Montreal Canadiens, even though they blew a three-goal lead in New York Sunday night and had to settle for a 4-4 tie with Rangers. At home Saturday night Canadiens blasted some of their old-time class knocking Detroit 5-1. The results of the two games put them in third place, a point ahead of Red Wings and two behind Toronto.

Canadians and Chicago were the only teams to see action twice during the weekend, as only four games were scheduled.

NESTER STARTS RAILY — Eric Nesterenko started Chicago on the way to victory Sunday night with two goals after the last-place Bruins had taken a lead on goals by Tom Williams in the first period and Don McKenney early in the third.

Hawks' reunited line of Bobby Hull, Red Hay and Murray Balfour, which used to be called the "million-dollar line," then sprang into action with two quick goals that provided the margin of victory. Hull scored first, Hull and Balfour assisting, and then Balfour scored from a native of Bar Harbor, Me. Hull and Hull.

Pair Found Alive In Bush After Plane Forced Down

EDMONTON (CP) — A pilot apparently injured, but an RCAF spokesman in Edmonton said later the passenger was believed suffering from exposure.

Temperatures during the week dropped as low as 35 degrees below zero in the search area. The Dakota dropped two RCAF medical officers by parachute after sighting the downed aircraft. Soon after, a snowmobile from a forestry survey camp five miles away accidentally came on the scene.

Lehew was taken by snowmobile to the camp. Wagar and the RCAF personnel were returned to Hay River by civilian aircraft.

Wagar set out under overcast skies Wednesday, while a light snow was falling, on a two-hour, 160-mile flight to East South N.W.T., about 60 miles north of Edmonton.

A search began when he did not arrive at East South and the RCAF sent a Dakota from Hay River Wednesday night. The searchers covered more than 24,000 square miles in a search of flying eleven planes were in the hunt Sunday.

Three pilots from Athabasca, Alta., who set out to join the search Thursday, smashed into the trees in a Cessna 180 after an engine failure 15 miles north of Athabasca, about 150 miles north of Edmonton. Also aboard was Doug Black, an Athabasca trapper.

None of the four was injured. Black walked out of the crash site through snow-covered bush country in freezing weather to get help. The plane crashed near their downed plane and were picked up by another aircraft Saturday.

Buckaroos Captain Tops In OMJHL Scoring Race

By BOB BAUER

Kelowna Buckaroo captain Bob Gruber, with his smooth play-making and stick-handling wizardry, moved into sole possession of first place in the Okanagan Mainline Junior Hockey League scoring race Saturday night. He scored four goals and assisted on four more, to lead his high-flying Buckaroos to a 16-2 assault over cellar-dwelling Penticton Vees in Kelowna.

Other Kelowna scorers were Terry Kanabuchi and Gary Kulchicki with three goals each. John Strong with a pair, and Derek Pyle, Phil Larden, Doug Chisholm and Ken Hamanishi with singles.

Terry Wilson and Gil Goodman scored singles for the Penticton squad.

The "Quakers" took a four-goal lead in the first period, adding five more in the second and hit the skinn for seven more in the final period. Penticton goals came in the second and final periods.

Officials handed out a total of 15 penalties during the 60 minutes of wide-open, rugged play. Kelowna picked up nine penalties to six for Penticton.

FIGHTING PENALTY

Al Hart of the Vees and Ken Hamanishi of the Bucks each received five-minute penalties in the third period for fighting.

Hard-hitting Buckaroo defence-mannen Phil Larden was given a game misconduct for starting another fight when officials attempted to separate Hart and Hamanishi.

Ron Spafford turned in an outstanding performance in the Penticton goal, despite the high score, turning away 49 shots. Sid Shussel, although supported by a much stronger defensive unit than the Vees, also came up with some brilliant saves during the game as he turned away 31 shots on the Buckaroos net.

Blades Play Finest Game To Beat Mighty Kamloops

VERNON (Staff) — Vernon Blades played one of their finest, fastest games this season when they knocked over the mighty league leader Kamloops Rockets 6-3 in Okanagan Junior Hockey League action here Saturday night before about 125 fans.

Ike Coulter was Vernon's star with three goals for a hat trick. Gordon Kineshanko, Bucky Sherck and Dave MacKay each counted singles. Dale Sandkye paced Kamloops with a brace while Eric Shishido notched the single.

Coulter opened the scoring at the 14:30 mark of the first period after taking a pass from newcomer Ted Palm to beat Rockets' goalie. Less than two minutes after Sandkye broke away from his own line and went the whole way to tie the score, Kamloops were short-handed at the time.

After 22 seconds of the second frame, Kineshanko got hold of a loose puck at the Rockets' blue line and blasted a shot into the corner of the cage. Midway through the period Palm and Coulter combined again with Coulter flipping the rubber into the net at 12:18. Bucky Sherck flanked by two Kamloops players broke away from his own end and rifled the puck past net minder Roy Hart to move Vernon into a 3-1 lead. In the closing minute, Eric Shishido picked up the puck behind the blades' net to scoring position putting Kamloops into the games again.

At the 5:45 mark of the final stanza, Sandkye collected his second of the night as he let fly a sizzling slap shot from the Blades' blue line which had goalie Taylor beat. Minutes later Coulter raced with Kineshanko up the ice bagging his third of the night. Dave MacKay pushed Vernon further ahead at 16:48 Bob Stein picking up the assist.

A total of six penalties were called, each club drawing three. Vernon outshot Kamloops 33-31. Vernon's next game will host the cellar-dwelling Penticton Vees New Years day.

Packers Do It Once Again But Less Margin This Time

NEW YORK (AP) — Green Bay intercepted by Dan Currie. Shortly after the Giants scored their only touchdown when Eric Barnes blocked Max McGee's punt and rookie Jim Collier of Arkansas recovered in the end zone. Nitschke swung into action again in the third period. He pounced on the ball on the Giants' 24 when Sam Hunter fumbled a punt. Five days later, Jerry Kramer kicked the second of his three field goals. The kicks traveled 26, 29 and 30 yards.

It was 20 degrees at game time. The weather soon turned for the worse, dropping to 17 with a 20-mile-an-hour wind blowing passes, punts, shales, fakes and even the Packers bench uncoupled across the frozen turf.

Nitschke recovered a Phil King fumble on the Giants' 28 late in the second period with the Packers holding a perilous 3-0 lead. Two plays later, after a 21-yard pass from Hornung to Boyd Dowler, Taylor charged into the end zone on a 1-yard burst for Green Bay's only touchdown. Earlier, Nitschke deflected a title pass that was intercepted by Dan Currie.

Vince Lombardi's Packers did not hesitate New York Giants Sunday in their 16-7 victory at frigid Yankee Stadium as they had done in their 37-0 rout last New Year's Eve in Green Bay. The net result was the same though. The Packers still are champions of the National Football League.

The story of the game is told best by the voting for the most valuable player. No Jim Taylor. No Paul Hornung. No V. A. Fike. The award went to Ray Nitschke, the Packers' 6-foot-3 230-pound ballhawk who may be the NFL's all-star middle line backer for the next 10 years.

Nitschke recovered a Phil King fumble on the Giants' 28 late in the second period with the Packers holding a perilous 3-0 lead. Two plays later, after a 21-yard pass from Hornung to Boyd Dowler, Taylor charged into the end zone on a 1-yard burst for Green Bay's only touchdown. Earlier, Nitschke deflected a title pass that was intercepted by Dan Currie.

"The Giants are much, much better," said Lombardi, comparing the 1962 team with the 1961 club. "You just can't compare the two games."

The only points the Giants scored were turned in by the defence on the blocked punt by Barnes and the recovery by Collier.

Spectators Get In On Rioting As Quakers Beat Czechs Twice

PRAGUE (CP) — Saskatoon rick and Markup drew penalties. Quakers made a sweep of their two weekend games in Czechoslovakia, defeating the Kladno all-stars 5-3 Sunday night in Prague.

In a Saturday night game at Chomutov, the touring Canadians beat the Chomutov VTZ team 7-4.

The game here saw a near riot in the first period. Both teams had to be sent to their dressing rooms for 10 minutes to cool off.

Trouble started when Ladislav Markup of the Kladno team opened a four-stitch cut on Wally Patrick's head. Both Patrick and Markup drew penalties.

A minute later a cross-check by Zdenek Landa on Jackie McLeod precipitated fighting, with players on both teams and some spectators along the boards getting into the fray.

After their return to the ice the teams played good hockey with a minimum of penalties and finished the game playing two men short.

(The Czech news agency Ceteka, monitored in Vienna, said the Canadians "not only fought the local players but converged on the fans behind the boards as well.")

Soviet newspaper Pravda, has ridiculed a proposal to pull down the London church of St. Mary the Virgin in Aldermanbury, and rebuild it in Fulton, Mo. The church, designed by the English architect, Christopher Wren, after the great fire of 1666, was seriously damaged in the German blitz. British approval for the transfer of the church has not yet been received although the building has not been repaired since the war damage occurred. (AP Wirephoto)

Organization Of Its Business As Resolution For Commons

OTTAWA (CP)—A new concerted attempt to organize the business of the Commons will be made by the government when the parliamentary session resumes, cabinet sources say. The object will be to have the Commons devote more of its time to concrete legislative action and less to rambling and inconclusive debates. There also may be an effort to make substantial changes in the Commons rules, if government and opposition parties can agree on conflicting suggestions from the two sides of the House. The first part of the current session, which started Sept. 27 and went on for 60 working days before its Christmas-New Year recess, has been described as unproductive. Only 27 days were spent on government-sponsored legislation.

BLAMED GOVERNMENT
Opposition groups have blamed the government, saying it has been disorganized in its scheduling of Commons business. Each day's program is announced at adjournment the evening before by the government's House leader, now Veterans Minister Churchill. But the decision is not the government's alone. The government House leader draws up the daily agenda in consultation with opposition whips and House leaders. They rarely are in unanimous agreement. It was learned that in the last two weeks before Christmas, Mr. Churchill did draw up a written program for the House and submitted it to the Liberal, Social Credit and New Democratic Party leaders and whips. On virtually every point there was some disagreement. Some prominent members of the opposition asked the government not to bring forward particular measures on some days they were going to be away.

Four Years Now Since Castro Victory Marched Into Havana

HAVANA (AP)—It is four years since Fidel Castro marched in victory into this Cuban capital. The prime minister's opponents continue to prophesy an early end to his regime. "This will topple soon," is their emphatic assertion. "Fatherland or death, we shall win," is the Fidelista's equally strong statement. To the foreigner taking in the Cuban situation day by day it is much like weighing quicksilver on a greased palm. Whatever the correct appraisal, there are more guns a person visible in Cuba than anywhere else in the hemisphere. JOIN MILITIA
Many workers have joined the militia because of real or seeming necessity. In any case there seems to be enough loyal followers of Castro in uniform to insure a relative state of internal peace and order. A smooth propaganda organization has been set up, aiming to keep all the minds of the Cubans in the proper channels. Much of the regime's audi-

PROPOSE LONGER AGENDA
One proposal being discussed is for the government to draw up a detailed program for the period between Jan. 21, when the session resumes, and early April, when Parliament would normally adjourn for its Easter recess — assuming a general election is not called or precipitated before then.

This program, some government members think, should be announced in the Commons and an appeal made to the opposition to try to follow it, assuming that each member is, as the rule book says, "bound to attend the service of the House, unless leave of absence has been given him by the House."

CANT AGREE
Conflicting suggestions have been made for rule changes. The government has hinted at extending the hours—now 2 1/2 in the Monday-to-Friday sittings each week. It has also suggested a one-hour time limit on the daily question period, which has been running 40 to 90 minutes a day, and has noted that private members' hours take up five hours a week. Opposition groups in the past have complained about any extension of sitting hours. They say their members' correspondence, committee meetings and speech research chores take up too much time that the 2 1/2-hour work week for Commons sittings is only part of their burden.

visual publicity originates in the minds of copywriters and layout artists formerly employed by U.S. advertising agencies in Cuba. In the Leninist tradition no legal opposition to the "dictatorship of the proletariat" is allowed, so dissenters must keep submissive silence or embrace clandestine action.

LACK LEADERSHIP
What little underground organization is said to remain following the 1961 invasion flap is further hampered by "state security" police action, squabbling among underground groups, a lack of leadership and goals and an amazing failure to keep secrets secret. Between the Fidelistas and the rabid opposition are the dazed neutrals, many of whom once gave unqualified support to Castro. One of these put it this way: "The exiles in Miami, Mexico, and other cities are not even able to provide leadership. They are split into more than 100 groups, unable to come up with a concerted program. If their opposition to Castro can't bring them together, what can we expect..."

Plenty of Water In Year-End Rally

By PETER DUNN
Canadian Press Staff Writer
The traditional year-end rally arrived in watered-down form on Canadian stock markets last week. The Toronto industrial index managed a gain of about four points, most of the rise coming Thursday. Strongest groups were refining oils, pipelines and steel. Bell of Canada, a comparatively new listing, traded in extremely heavy volume, advancing to $13.81—its best price so far—before easing to $13.75. Dominion Bridge, riddled by long-standing takeover rumors, gained more than $1. Unites were well mixed. Banks had Montreal and Nova Scotia each up about $1. Most papers declined, but Albita went against trend, rising $1.50. Senior base metals showed a predominance of fractional gains. Noranda, showing unusually brisk action, climbed to a year's peak of $33.63, up about $1. Openiska jumped to life, gaining almost $1 after earlier touching a 1962 high of $7.20. SPECULATIVES ACTIVE
Speculatives were more active this week than they have been for some time. Northgate

High Road To Freedom

BRUNSWICK, Germany (AP)—A 20-year-old East German border guard and his 18-year-old fiancée, trudged through more than two feet of snow in the Harz Mountains to flee to West German territory early today. West German authorities said the soldier was familiar with the area and thus was able to find a section which was not mined. The flight brought to 78 the number of East German border guards who crossed into the West during 1962 over a tightly guarded stretch of about 160 miles of lower Saxony. An East German refugee was admitted to hospital in Bavaria with severe frostbite after fleeing barefoot over the snow-covered hills of upper Franconia. Police said Hans Goldmann, a 22-year-old steelworker, lost his shoes in more than three feet of snow but ran on until he reached a Western border post.

No Sun For Britons Even On Riviera

LONDON (AP)—"Go to the sun" vacation ads blossomed in British and European papers today as most of the continent shivered in chilling winds from the Russian steppes. But most of the southern resorts extolled in the advertisements were caught in the same freezing or near freezing temperatures. Even the Italian Riviera got its first frosty covering of the season at Genoa. More snowfalls were reported around Milan, Bologna and Verona. An orchid fancier in London paid $3,324 for one flower in 1966.

Variety is an important factor of diet based on five different groups of food as listed in Canada's Food Guide.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW

UNFAVORABLE planetary influences which have governed personal relationships for most of the past week continue to a certain extent, so do your part to maintain harmony. Try to finish incomplete tasks, and postpone new moves and changes until a better period.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope indicates that for a few months it would be advisable to focus your attention on job and financial matters.

This does not mean that there will be an extraordinary change in either of these phases of your life. What it does mean is that, if you would wind up this year with an improved status along these lines, you will have to adopt a more realistic attitude than you have at times.

You are ambitious, resourceful and practical, but sometimes inclined to be too critical of others and arouse resentment unnecessarily. Try to face facts as they are.

There are chances of financial gain for brief periods in early September and October, 1963. But to benefit by these indications of job recognition in November. But all of this will depend on your own efforts. The stars do not promise any goals, and get going now!

Horoscopes
If single, November's aspects indicate the possibility of marriage and if travel is in your mind, next July and August could be good months in which to take off.

Domestic interests are under generally favorable aspects, but be diplomatic in both family and business circles throughout September.

Look for some good news late in November.

A child born on this day will be resourceful, trusting, and would make a good counselor.

FOR WEDNESDAY
PERSONAL relationships are favored at this time. This is a perfect period in which to cement old friendships, share pleasures with family and loved ones, and encourage new associations.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY
If Wednesday is your birthday the year ahead promises much in the way of rewarding achievement where job matters are concerned and a definite improvement in your financial status between April and mid-early September and October, 1963. But to benefit by these good influences, you will have to set your sights on ambitious goals, and get going now!

Fall Of Clay Smothers 5

WASHINGTON (AP)—Tons of red clay cascaded down an embankment Friday and knocked over a partly-constructed concrete wall, killing five workers and injuring 11.

Two other men thought missing for a time in the suburban Maryland cavern were located by police after rescue workers searched for five hours through a tangled mass of steel, splintered wood, hardened concrete and clay gumbo.

The wall part of the basement substructure for a beach department store to form a portion of a 10-acre shopping center collapsed with a rumble and a crash at 1:30 p.m. Survivors said there was no warning.

The unshored sides of the excavation, weakened by thawing weather, swept across a seven-foot gap and knocked down the wall and form into which concrete was being poured.

Don't forget that this is your month, and even though results are not immediately forthcoming, efforts put forth during the next two weeks will be especially star-blessed.

Do avoid extravagance in March and April. You will have no real cause for financial worry, but you must be practical. Really excellent vibrations will help you further worthwhile business objectives in the spring.

A children born on this day will be endowed with placid, staid and a happy disposition.

Finewhisky, in moderation, plays an important part in the art of gracious living.

Knowing when to make a "gracious refusal" plays an equally great part in the art of sensible living.

This is especially true when the New Year's party is breaking up... when you're about to drive home and someone suggests, "How about one for the road?"

This New Year's Eve, if you are doing the driving, say: "Yes, I'll have one for the road. But, please make it coffee!"

CONSIGNMENT FROM SOVIET

Nehru Expects Migs Soon

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Prime Minister Nehru said today India expects a consignment of Soviet MIG fighters to arrive "fairly soon." He said the jets could be used against Communist China "if necessary."

But Nehru told a press conference here the main purpose of the MIGs is to serve as trainers and models to help India manufacture more.

The Soviet Union agreed last summer to supply a number of MIG jet fighters and to help the Indians set up a plant to build more of them.

But there was some doubt whether the Soviets would honor the agreement after fighting broke out between China and India on their Himalayan border.

Soviet Plane Sets Record

LONDON (Reuters)—A Soviet turbo-prop airliner landed in Moscow today after a non-stop flight from Havana, Cuba, inaugurating the longest passenger air service in the world, the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

The agency said the TU-114, capable of carrying 170 passengers, travelled 7,000 miles between the two capitals in just under 14 hours.

Commenting on the possibility of China becoming a nuclear power, Nehru said today:

"It's quite possible in a year or two they might have a nuclear test. I do not think they will ever have any nuclear force worth a name in the foreseeable future."

WOULD MEET CHOU

Nehru said he would gladly meet Chinese Premier Chou En-lai but "a certain basis must be established before we meet."

The border fighting has been quiet since China declared a unilateral cease-fire and troop withdrawal in late November after having made big advances into Kashmir on the west and the Assam plains on the eastern end of the mountainous border.

Nehru said talks last week between India and Pakistan on their dispute in Kashmir "were good only in the sense that they were frank and friendly... and they ended in a more friendly atmosphere than they began."

The talks began in Rawalpindi Thursday after a surprise announcement from Peking that China and Pakistan had reached complete agreement "in principle" on their part of the Himalayan border.

Wall Street Pace Slows Down But In Fairly Cheerful Mood

NEW YORK (AP)—Business approached the New Year last week at a slow between-holiday pace and in a moderately optimistic frame of mind.

The Christmas holiday cut into production in major industries and retail trade slumped down after an eleventh-hour spurt had sent holiday buying to a new record.

A strike of 60,000 members of the International Longshoremen's Association paralyzed ports from Maine to Texas. Newspaper strikes in New York City and Cleveland dragged on. Much of the optimism about the outlook for 1963 hinged on the possibility of a reduction in personal and corporate income taxes.

President Kennedy met with his economic advisers to hammer out final touches on tax-cut plans. Treasury Secretary DeLoach and his staff are ready to put the program into form for submission to Congress. But no details have been disclosed.

Most leading businessmen participating in the annual year-end symposium of the Commerce and Industry Association of New York viewed 1963 prospects optimistically. These opinions were tempered by some anticipations of declines or continuation of the present level. Representatives of the drug, retail food, apparel, oil, life insurance and securities industries generally felt good about the outlook. Real estate and construction executives predicted that building of commercial and luxury apartment buildings would slow down.

STARTED SLOWLY

Christmas gift buying got off to a slow start because of unusually warm weather and there was lull in some sections by storms.

But in the final days the surge got under way, and the National Retail Merchants Association estimated that dollar volume set a new record, exceeding the 1961 level by three or four per cent.

Because of the holiday-curtailed work week, automobile production slidded to an estimated 118,000 passenger cars from 105,151 last week. The total for the year will be about 6,500,000 cars, an increase of 1,000,000 over last year and second only to the record established in 1955.

Steel output last week, the latest for which figures are available, posted a gain after two weeks of small declines. The total of 1,574,000 tons was 2.3 per cent above the preceding week.

The total for the year, with one week to go, was 184,000,000 tons, about 1,000,000 tons above the like period of a year earlier.

BOY RAIDS JFK

HAVANA (AP)—The Communist newspaper Hoy says President Kennedy "committed aggressive action" by receiving the leaders of the Cuban prisoners captured in the Bay of Pigs invasion. Kennedy received them at Palm Beach after their return to Florida from Cuban prisons.

PRINCE STEPS OUT

Prince Michael, the Queen's cousin, steps it out as he leads a Sandhurst platoon during the Sovereign's parade. He is the Duke of Kent's brother.

Old Style WATER

It, too, has distinction!

The clear, sparkling water of British Columbia is a brewing ingredient unequalled in Canada. Our original recipe calls distinctly for this pure mountain water. Blended in our brewing kettle with hops and barley, its goodness comes to life. Then, finally, in our ageing cellars the brew slowly matures into the brilliant golden colour and the supreme flavour that is Old Style. Fortunately, this traditional manner of brewing does not go unnoticed—as evidenced by the many people who prefer Old Style.
